

A Fine James I Carved Oak
Armorial Newel Post of a Lion

Inventory Number :160-130

Size:

5 1/4 ins wide, 12 1/4 ins high and 4 1/2 ins thick;

base is 4 1/4 ins wide, 4 1/4 ins deep and 1 1/2 ins high

A rare survival, this extremely rare armorial carved oak newel post or finial of a lion sejant-erect supporting a coat of arms is supported on the remains of a slightly domed base, and the fierce face is particularly appealing.

Although the arms have not been traced to a specific family the same arms do appear in a stained glass window in Edenhall, Cumbria on the borders of the Lake district in the very north of English and date to the same period.

English c.1610
